Los Angeles Times

Brooks + Scarpa, “Dense-city: Housing for Quality of Life,” at the 18th Street Art Center’s Airport Gallery. This exhibition brings together projects by the L.A. architecture studio whose designs have regularly touched on the burning issues in design today: equity, public space, housing. (They recently released a toolkit of design pieces that can be adapted to a variety of urban lots, allowing cities to speed up construction for the homeless.) This exhibition features two decades of projects intended to address sustainable housing and communities. Through Dec. 14. Airport Campus, 3026 Airport Ave., Santa Monica, 18thstreet.org.

An affordable veterans housing complex called the Six, by L.A. architects Brooks + Scarpa. (Brooks + Scarpa)
