Item A-4

MLKJCC - Receipt and Filing an Evaluation from the Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration & Juneteenth Celebration Advisory Committee Members Concerning the Juneteenth Event that took place on June 21, 2025

Dorian Jackson, Associate Analyst, provided a summary of the material of record.

Discussion ensued between staff and Committee Members regarding the historical markers exhibit; the QR code; the importance of making the public aware of historical facts; business owners in the Culver City area that want to participate next year; positive feedback received; attendance levels; improving on the time the food is served; glare that made it hard to see the In Memoriam display; speed of the slides in the display; the passport system; the date range that

Culver City was considered a Sundown Town; a suggestion to include a historical marker showing the realities of the consequences of slavery and Jim Crow; multiple layers and factors regarding incarceration; concern with displaying statistics without context; previewing educational material prior to printing; facts that were not shared with the Committee in advance; concern that not everyone was on the same page with the educational information that was given at the event; the need for full Committee review of educational material; information left out regarding the history of the event; a recommendation that the full Committee review information before items go to press; jurisdiction; and the missed opportunity to take advantage of Committee expertise.

Additional discussion ensued between staff and Committee Members regarding information shared months prior to the event; the addition of the graphics and the date range for the Sundown slide by PRCS; approval of the concept by the full Committee, not the details; the need to improve security; positive feedback on food quality and vendor; concern with the length of the food lines; having pre-made plates; the need for multiple food trucks to accommodate the scale; the children's table; relocation of the children's area due to difficulty of hearing the books being read; the importance of providing water, food, and a space for the entertainers; mic checks; ensuring there are no audio issues; concern that there was no water available for entertainers and attendees; lack of knowledge about who the vendors were; assigning a lead to help manage vendor and entertainment contracts; the need for clarity on the budget; key items that were not done; the need for a clear run of show template including vendors, key contacts, being clear on who the audience is; promotional materials for the event using old and outdated images; the importance of allowing the Committee to review promotional materials before they are distributed; allowing the Committee to help distribute promotional materials; logistics; improvements that can be made to enhance the event; the importance of proactive communication to provide information when changes occur; receipt of information before the meeting; assignment of one communications lead and one person to handle vendor logistics as a point of contact; the need for a reoccurring pre-event audit to review all marketing materials; creating a standard run of show template with flexibility for additions; and ensuring that people understand roles and responsibilities.

Discussion ensued between staff and Committee Members regarding clarification that the event was within the budget; having a running budget so the Committee knows where to push and pull; the need for an accurate run of show with accurate speakers; a suggestion to dissolve vague ad hoc subcommittees and create more specific ad hoc subcommittees; subcommittee updates at each meeting; communication with staff to agendaize subcommittee reports; information included in staff reports released 72 hours in advance of meetings; the need for one person to take the lead on a subcommittee to contact staff to get items on the agenda; success of the History and Culture Ad Hoc Subcommittee in scheduling regular meetings, sharing ideas, understanding roles and the topic; similar issues with the MLK event that were experienced with the Juneteenth event; ensuring that feedback from prior events is applied; creation of a handbook for each event with staff reports, Committee feedback, and attendance numbers; creation of a distribution list for events; staff agreement to include an attachment to the staff report when the presentation of statistics is made; linking the evite emails to the listserv; 1,500 signed up to receive email blasts; ensuring that people are aware of events and proclamations; and the intent to increase promotion and improve the event.

MOVED BY MEMBER GREEN AND SECONDED BY MEMBER WEISS THAT THE MARTIN LUTHER KING JR. CELEBRATION AND JUNETEENTH CELEBRATION ADVISORY COMMITTEE: RECEIVE AND FILE AN EVALUATION FROM THE MARTIN LUTHER KING JR.
