Discussion ensued between staff and Council Members regarding communication between the City and Culver City Unified School District (CCUSD); previous consideration of the item; Charter requirements that CCUSD follow state law; clarification regarding the need to include CCUSD in the ballot question; and a request to pull the item and reagendaize it for further community conversation to add transparency.

MOVED BY VICE MAYOR VERA AND SECONDED BY COUNCIL MEMBER ERIKSSON THAT THE CITY COUNCIL REAGENDIZE CONSIDERATION OF THE ITEM AT A LATER DATE.

THE MOTION FAILED BY THE FOLLOWING VOTE:

AYES: ERIKSSON, VERA
NOES: FISCH, LEE, MCMORRIN

Mayor Lee invited public comment.

The following members of the public addressed the City Council:

Ron Ostrin discussed consideration of increasing the age when one can buy a rifle; concern with a power grab; lack of discussion about the School Board or allowing people outside of the City to vote in municipal elections; the radical shift proposed; the discussion of the item on March 28, 2022; uncertainty reflected in the minutes; exclusionary politics; the need for citizens to be involved; extreme progressive policies; he felt the item required further discussion and should not be on the Consent Calendar; and he encouraged citizens to get involved and bring back common sense to the City in the November election.

Nancy Barba was called to speak but was not present on Webex.

Jamie Wallace questioned why the item was on the Consent Calendar; discussed lack of a discussion about School Board electors; the effective date; time available to work out the logistics and whether the School Board should be included; creating a special class of voters; costs; responsibility; special ballots; private schools; serious issues that require discussion in a public forum; concern with the item being considered at a special, early City Council meeting; logistical and legal issues to work out; and concern with staff workload.

Khin Khin Gyi discussed the lack of appropriate attachments; consolidating City and School District elections with county elections; increased costs; the pace of maturity; and she felt the item should be reagendaized for full discussion by all members of the electorate.

Jeannine Wisnosky Stehlin indicated that the current Consent Item was a reason for public distrust; discussed lack of transparency; the vote at the March 28, 2022 meeting that did not include the School District; and she wanted to see the City Council follow proper policy and act in good faith by reagendaizing the issue an Action Item rather than a Consent Item.

Discussion ensued between staff and Council Members regarding placing the item on the agenda as a Consent Calendar Item rather than as an Action Item; procedures; the ability to fully discuss the item and take action; distinctions between Consent and Action Items; School Board elections vs. municipal elections; and City control of the School Board.

Ada Meighan-Theil thanked the City Council for the clarification noting that there is much confusion about the issue; she discussed School Board elections included in the City Charter; grievances raised about not having enough time to fairly discuss the measure; previous lengthy discussions on the matter; community input; discussions with the School Board; technicalities as a last effort to restrict enfranchisement; promotion of civic engagement; democracy as being meant to get people involved; anecdotal evidence; political involvement as a learned behavior; best serving the City; allowing ample opportunity to practice involvement in democracy from an early age; providing opportunity to vote in a safe and nurturing environment; a Temple University Study published by the National Institute of Health regarding cognitive capacity of 16-year-olds; she encouraged lowering the voting age; and felt the item should move forward.

Bryan Sanders discussed the importance of debate; mailings to residents who do not check email or attend City Council meetings; he questioned what public notification requirements were for the affected constituents before changes are made to the Charter; and he wanted to see community workshops held about the issue.

Cindy Bailey wanted to see items considered separately rather than being attached to something else; she disagreed with comments by Ms. Meighan-Theil that evidence was anecdotal; discussed making it clear which agenda items can be debated; concern that the process is not transparent; lack of notification and awareness; the R1 issue; cognitive abilities of 16-year-olds; and different brain processes for those in their 20s and 30s.

Kelli Estes expressed concern that the topic had grown from the original agenda item; noted that the item had not been fully costed out and more work needed to be done; pointed out statistics indicating that less than 5% of 18-20-year-olds vote; discussed the defeat of the measure state-wide; undefined reoccurring costs; the current spending rate of the City; concern that costs will be on the tax-payers; she noted that the rest of the state was not participating; pointed out that 30% of students attend Culver City schools on a permit; and she asked that the City be cost conscious and defer the matter to a later, fully-understood agenda item.

Rosalind LaBriola asked that the item be placed on a future agenda to allow for more information to be gathered and more public discussion for the very important matter.

Denise Neal expressed support for civic engagement; asserted that as a parent and educator, she did not support the item; she discussed concern with the lack of public outreach; and she felt that if one is not able to enter into a legally binding contract, a consensual relationship, or purchase cigarettes or alcohol, one should not be able to vote either.

Steve Siegel expressed support for comments made by previous speakers, 90% of whom opposed the item; felt that Council Members should listen to their constituents noting the need to allow additional time for consideration; discussed lack of transparency and notification; support for civic engagement; feedback from parents; and he felt that study was needed before putting the onus on children to vote.

Rosi Gabl asserted that certain Council Members wanted to get children to the polls in order to control the vote; discussed indoctrination; recruiting; the recent visit to the High School by Mayor Lee; the need for politics to divide in order to be effective; revolutionaries who come to power using similar tactics; and inclusion of illegal citizens in the voting process.

Marci Baun felt that the matter should be agendized; discussed Consent Items vs. Action Items; the need to publicize the issue; the importance of careful consideration of changing the City Charter; the recent brawl at the High School; indoctrination vs. encouraging people to think for themselves; and the need for information about financial implications.

Melissa Sanders echoed comments made by previous speakers in opposition to the item; discussed concern with trying to push through a ballot measure without solid information about financial impact; logistics; students who attend school in the City but do not live here; and she proposed allowing students to practice voting but not have it count to see how many students would actually turn out to vote.

Cary Anderson was called to speak but could not be heard.

Celeste Nunez, student, advocated for lowering the voting age; discussed including the School Board; decisions affecting students; the ability to work, file taxes, and become emancipated at the age 16; responsibilities; decision-making capabilities; and the feeling that most people that are not civically engaged would not go to the trouble of filling out a ballot.

Freddy Puza was called to speak but did not respond.

Disa Lindgren expressed support for the item; noted lengthy discussion of lowering the voting age over several years; discussed eloquent arguments made by the young people who would be affected; providing an opportunity to extend the franchise; paper mailings; the item on the ballot for people to vote on; and she urged the City Council to vote in favor of the item noting the hard work that has gone into the process.

Steven Jones discussed outreach and ensuring that everyone has a voice in City matters, and he asked that every registered voter be provided with information to be allowed to vote on whether the Charter should be amended or not.

Rebecca Rona Tuttle expressed concern with the tone of some of the speakers in opposition to putting the item on the ballot; discussed discouraging people from participating; using positive language and a pleasant tone of voice; repeated abuse; the distinction between putting something on the ballot and whether a 16-year-old can vote; she questioned what was wrong with bringing the issue before the voters; and noted opportunities for additional conversation about the matter and sufficient time to gather information about the financial impacts.

Cary Anderson was called to speak but did not respond.

Discussion ensued between staff and Council Members regarding various meetings and events with Vote 16 members going back to 2018; the item that was ready to be placed on the ballot before the pandemic began; extensive work done over a number of years to allow the community to have the opportunity to vote on the issue; calls for other items to be on the ballot; appreciation to the young voices for their advocacy; unwelcoming spaces; attempts to discredit people as part of politics; the concept of adultism; centering equity and the closest to the issue; transit; climate; allowing those impacted by decisions made by the City Council to have a voice; community organizations in support of Vote 16; and support for bringing the item to a vote on the ballot in November.

Additional discussion ensued between staff and Council Members regarding the need to clarify logistics before moving forward; financial implications; the need for more work to enable people to be able to decide; the feeling that the item is too vague and a placeholder; sending a ballot to every voter in the City; lack of criticism on the actual agenda item; frequency of measures put to voters; the action of a future City Council; whether it is necessary to protect voters from answering the question; allowing the voters to weigh in after four years of discussion; approval of the ballot question and draft Charter language; setting up an argument drafting subcommittee; allowing the community to have the choice; reagentizing the item to allow time to provide more information; organizational consistency of Vote 16; allowing a way to voice concerns; and the importance of early engagement.

MOVED BY COUNCIL MEMBER FISCH AND SECONDED BY MAYOR LEE THAT THE CITY COUNCIL: APPROVE THE BALLOT MEASURE LANGUAGE TO AMEND THE CITY CHARTER TO LOWER THE VOTING AGE TO 16 FOR CULVER CITY MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS AND CULVER CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION FOR PLACEMENT ON THE NOVEMBER 2022 ELECTION BALLOT.
