Item A-4

CC - (1) Discussion of a Reach Building Code Amendment; and (2) Direction to the City Manager as Deemed Appropriate

Sol Blumenfeld, Community Development Director, provided a summary of the material of record.

Stuart Tom, Consulting Building Official, noted the need for direction from the City Council to create the appropriate ordinance; discussed options for the City to pursue; determining the amount of exposure the City is willing to incur; creating greener, more sustainable codes; areas to seek in the realm of sustainability; special requirements if a local jurisdiction chooses to amend building codes in any manner affecting energy efficiency; certification of standards by the California Energy Commission; defining a model building; cost effectiveness; true costs; taking a two-phased approach; strategies used by other California cities; apparent hazard with using natural gas in new construction; and reducing the ability of one energy purveyor from selling its product.

Discussion ensued between the consultant, staff and Council Members regarding municipal code amendments vs. building code amendments; legal challenges; timing; the need for an analysis; elimination of gas hookups in new construction; and required energy improvements.

Mayor Sahli-Wells invited public comment:

The following members of the audience addressed the City Council:

Dr. Khin Khin Gyi, West LA Sierra Club and Americans for Democratic Action, discussed United Nations Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IGPCC) recommendations; proximity to the Inglewood Oil Field; release of methane gas from the gas supply; and she asked that the City Council phase out natural gas in future homes and enact an ordinance that requires electrification as the only source of energy moving forward.

Disa Lindgren discussed the Global Climate Strike on September 20 and expressed support for taking action to no longer allow gas hookups in new construction.

Kelly Kent noted that the School District looked to the City for inspiration; expressed support for moving ahead in the Reach Code Amendments; discussed other cities that have taken action; she provided suggestions for additions to proposed requirements; and she proposed that a single phase be carried out in 2019 using existing Cost Effectiveness studies.

Denise Neal discussed the efficacy of relying solely on electricity; affects to water usage; costs; fire risks associated with solar; and she asked the City to consider alternatives.

Discussion ensued between the consultant, staff and Council Members regarding water conservation; energy usage; examination of recent models; support for the Berkeley option; appreciation to staff and Planning Commissioner Andrew Reilman for their work on the issue; the process; concern with dictating rather than elevating; consideration of placing a prohibition on gas installations in municipal buildings; outreach; incentivization; CalGreen Tier 1 for mixed fuel buildings; electrification readiness; in lieu fees; financing for retrofitting; highlighting benefits; costs savings with not adding the mixed fuel infrastructure; impactful local policies; input as part of the process; the Berkeley model; reasoning and urgency behind moving forward; commercial turnover; chefs who prefer to cook with gas; education; the perceived need for gas; residential; outreach; adding a requirement to provide shower facilities in buildings that serve a certain number of employees to the building code; earthquake resiliency; reaching climate goals more quickly; natural gas leaks and accidents; the outdated solar voltaic ordinance; state laws; room for expansion; state mandates; non-residential and multi-family; concern that electrification is not included in Phase 1; and agreement that robust public input be sought in pursuit of the Berkeley model in Phase 1 plus showers for cyclists followed by Phase 2.

Item A-6
(Out of Sequence)

CC - (1) Discussion of a Zoning Code Amendment to Modify the City's Existing Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU) Standards; and
(2) Direction to the City Manager as Deemed Appropriate

Michael Allen, Current Planning Manager, provided a summary of the material of record.

Sol Blumenfeld, Community Development Director, indicated that staff wanted to ensure that the nine identified barriers are considered with staff to return with final text amendments until the state makes a decision.

Discussion ensued between staff and Council Members regarding items that the state addressed that the City has not, and next steps in the process.

Mayor Sahli-Wells invited public comment:

The following members of the audience addressed the City Council:

Marla Koosed expressed concerns about the additional stretching of ADU standards; expressed support for previous City Council action to support ADUs; did not feel that the housing crisis could be solved by further pushing ADU boundaries; discussed changing the fabric of the City; small residential lots not designed to accommodate increased density and massing; she expressed concern with increased burden to City infrastructure and services; discussed mansionization; significant changes to the City proposed in the staff report; the need for public input for such a significant change; state involvement; and the absence of a transparent public process.

Uton Wong discussed the conversion of his garage; artificial limitations; and he expressed concern with the limitation to one bedroom for ADUs.

Ron Smoire discussed the limited time to review the changes; he expressed opposition to the proposed changes; noted insufficient time to see the impacts of ADUs in the community; supported efforts to increase affordable housing; felt that proposed changes would help developers who want to maximize the size of the lot for profit and would not provide more affordable housing in the City; and asserted that public review and a thorough analysis of the changes were necessary before proceeding.

David Trovato discussed his efforts to build an ADU; those who cannot afford to tear their homes down and rebuild; developers; common sense; and concern with a kneejerk reaction to manzionization.

Kevin Lachoff noted there should be room for adjustment to the regulations to accommodate individual situations; discussed noticing for the item; building size, massing and location; he noted that proposed changes would create larger buildings abutting the property lines of adjacent homeowners; resident concerns about siting and location, height and massing of structures on a lot; consideration of the same core issues under the name of a different topic; concern that developers will drive the price of single family homes higher as they look to build a second home on each property; and he felt that the current arrangement was working well and providing options.

Discussion ensued between staff and Council Members regarding the state ADU ordinance; demonstrating compliance; being a first adopter; text amendments; lot size; preemptively addressing changes; space between buildings; overlapping provisions; existing regulations; the owner occupancy requirement; the five year moratorium; incorporating key provisions; embracing the requirements in Culver City and trying to make them work; preserving the character of the neighborhoods; the Single Family Residential Design Study; additional outreach for when the draft ordinance comes back before the City Council; support for moving forward; making it clear that the notification is a courtesy as the item is a state mandate; clarifying that the City Council is not going to debate something that the state is requiring; confusion between mansionization and the creation of granny flats; messaging for people who have concerns; state mandated responsibilities; the larger discussion in the General Plan Update; cities that are fighting to not create housing; creating large homes for two peoples; support for providing additional housing and support for moving forward quickly; and the transparent public process taking place in Sacramento.

Denise Neal discussed Aging in Place and addressing the homeless crisis; disabilities acquired while homeless; Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) requirements; compliance; and funding for incentivized upgrades.

Discussion ensued between staff and Council Members regarding new construction; circumstances that require compliance; incorporation of ADA standards in the current building code; lack of money from the state to underwrite ADA improvements; the draft inclusionary ordinance; the affordable ADU program funded from proceeds of the inclusionary program; low and moderate income units; workforce units; and waiving building permit requirements for those units
