Community Announcements by City Council Members/Information Items from Staff

March 9, 2020

Mayor Sahli-Wells indicated that Vice Mayor Eriksson was not present at the meeting as he was in Washington, D.C. to lobby for Culver City on airplane overflight noise to advocate for quieter skies.

Council Member Fisch thanked the voters of Culver City for approving Measure CC.

Council Member Small also thanked the voters for passing Measure CC.

Council Member Lee echoed previous comments about support for Measure CC; he congratulated those who participated in the Los Angeles Marathon; and he thanked the UCLA students and their instructor for their work on the General Plan.

Mayor Sahli-Wells agreed that the passage of Measure CC was important to continue services the community asks for, and she discussed ballot measures in other cities in California.

Ken Powell, Assistant Fire Chief, provided an update on COVID-19 and the preparedness of the City; discussed community transmission; and recommendations from the Center for Disease Control and Los Angeles County Department of Public Health noting that additional information was available from those websites.

Mayor Sahli-Wells noted that public health was everyone's responsibility; discussed concern with overwhelming the public health system; avoiding spreading illness; and she indicated that the City was taking the matter very seriously and working on the issue every day.

Presentations to City Council

Presentation to the City Council by UCLA Graduate Students Regarding Their Class Project on the General Plan Update

Paavo Monkkonen, UCLA Luskin School of Urban Planning, introduced the presentation on the Comprehensive Project on the General Plan Update and he thanked staff and Council Members for their support.

Liliana Morales provided a presentation on Reimagining the Gateway of Culver City, created with team member Yiye Lin; discussed urban design; addressing urban challenges; City identity; branding; wayfinding; promoting diversity; new development; proposed changes; different visions proposed; the timeline; and next steps.

Council Member Lee suggested that the route to Hamilton High School for pedestrian and bicycling be included in the Maximum Treatment.

Carla Vásquez -Noriega discussed creating a proactive local affordable housing policy agenda with team members Ulises Aleman and Patrick Dexter; housing current and future Culver City residents; commercial vs. residential growth in Culver City; necessary policies to help Culver City reach Regional Housing Needs Assessment (RHNA) numbers; strategies to preserve affordable housing; housing demand; land use; changes to zoning and development standards; research methods; case studies; incentivizing creating affordable housing; stage level funding programs; census commuter data; assessing zone capacity; and assessing development in similar corridors in the City of Los Angeles.

Mayor Sahli-Wells indicated the desire to meet with the students for additional conversation.

Bradley Bounds discussed his public participation and engagement presentation, created with team members Lennox Chaiveera and Daniel Ruiz; providing a more representative process; quality; representation for all relevant City stakeholders; evaluation of previous projects and barriers to public participation; research; and establishing a standardized process.

Discussion ensued between Mr. Bound and Council Members regarding encouragement for project representatives to interview Council Members; Community Conversations with the National Institute for Civil Discourse; the process; equal representation; and the need for innovation.

Erika Pinto discussed research done by herself and team member

Angel Chen on the Culver City portion of the Inglewood Oil Field; challenges and opportunities; the Culver City amortization study; the potential phase out; current support and opposition for the redevelopment of the Oil Field into alternative uses; addressing research goals; study of the legislative and community landscape; implications; and recommendations to Culver City for the General Plan.

Council Members expressed appreciation for Ms. Pinto's involvement and encouraged her to reach out for additional information.

Esther Huang discussed her presentation, developed with Yidan Chen, regarding transit and mobility within Culver City; future mobility options; Transportation Demand Management (TDM); pushing new methods; cost effective measures to reduce travel and promote sustainability; operationalizing and expanding TDM strategies; employer based strategies; taking a phased approach to implementation; parking management; congestion pricing; improved government structure; understanding current conditions; case studies; actions of other cities; surveying employers; and working with the City.

Council Members encouraged Ms. Huang to work with Transportation staff and City consultants; discussed getting new employees in the habit of using public transit options; encouraging as many people as possible to use transit; and suggestions that could end up being part of public policy.

Nyang Bing Lin discussed Complete Streets; main research questions that guided the analysis by team members Anna Geannopoulos, Lupita Huerta, and Yue Shen; pedestrian collisions; pedestrian volumes; and political cost.

Council Members discussed the potential for dedicated bus and mobility lanes; emergency vehicles; impacts to response times; pedestrian scrambles; and communication with the Bicycle and Pedestrian Advisory Committee (BPAC).

Paavo Monkkonen, UCLA Luskin School of Urban Planning, encouraged Council Members and staff to contact him with any questions.

Mayor Sahli-Wells expressed appreciation to Council Member Lee for initiating the process and to Professor Monkkonen and the students for their work.

Council Member Lee thanked Ashley Rodgers for writing up the proposal and encouraged an additional project for next year.

Joint Public Comment - Items Not on the Agenda

Mayor Sahli-Wells invited public comment.

The following members of the audience addressed the City Council:

Ramel Pascual, CicLAVia, announced the 36th CicLAVia event on April 26; discussed the route through Culver City; noted the popularity of the route; indicated that Metro was sponsoring the event; and he requested a Culver City sponsored hub on Main Street between Venice and Culver.

Mayor Sahli-Wells received City Council consensus to place consideration of a sponsorship on the next agenda.

Council Member Small noted that he might need to recuse himself from the conversation as his wife is working with CicLAVia.

Dr. Janet Hoult discussed the Parks, Recreation and Community Services Commission Age Friendly Survey; noted the need for improved communication with senior citizens, improvements in restroom facilities in parks, and the need for additional benches in the City; acknowledged the value in improvements for all ages in Culver City; and she read a poem about aging.

Mark Lipman discussed his previous request for a line item to directly house the homeless; the official proposal brought forward by the Committee on Homelessness; the request for Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU) grants; implementation of a pilot program to pay the rent for existing units; costs per person to directly house people in permanent supportive housing; asking for what one wants vs. asking for what one can get; and he personally requested additional funding to directly house an additional 40 people to address homeless hotspots that are creating tension in the community and house 20% of the homeless population.

Kalani Whittington discussed lane reductions at Venice and Sepulveda due to work by the Department of Water and Power (DWP) causing tremendous traffic backup; Vision Zero; Great Streets in Mar Vista; overflow traffic onto other streets; divisiveness; she viewed lane reductions as putting a dam on a great river; questioned the number of traffic fatalities on Venice Boulevard; and she asked that the grandness of six lanes going down Venice Boulevard be preserved.

Mayor Sahli-Wells noted that most of Venice Boulevard is under the jurisdiction of the City of Los Angeles.
